

Need help with a new gadget?

We are delighted to be working with Lola Stafford Consulting again this year, which is a Costessey based social enterprise passionate about equipping local young people with life skills and building our community. Residents of all ages need help with today's phones, laptops and gadgets. A project funded by the Norfolk Community Foundation will see workshops at The Costessey Centre hosted by local young people who live and breathe information and media technology – who better to show us all what's new and how it works!

You may feel ready to get started with an item you already have or be just thinking about what you would like to learn or buy especially with Christmas around the corner. Contact Jacqui on 07806 392254 or leave your details at the office.

Over 4 tonnes of wipes and waste have clogged up Queen's Hills pumping station in a year....

Costessey Town Council is working with Anglian Water to remind residents this Christmas to do all they can to help stop blockages, avoid pollutions and help the environment.

At least half of households are expected to choose turkey this Christmas and each average bird produces approximately 250g of waste fats, oils and grease. That's a lot of fat, oil and grease which could potentially block sewer pipes if they are poured down the sink. Instead residents are reminded to scrape and wipe plates before washing, wait until hot oil has cooled and bin or recycle it.

Unflushable items such as baby wipes, facial wipes and household wipes should go in the bin, not down the toilet.

With your help, we can help protect our homes and the local environment from the misery and inconvenience of sewer flooding and pollution incidents. If you experience any problems with blockages please contact Anglian Water's 24 hour help line on 03457 145145.
